The 7 BEST NEW DESIGN HOTELS IN AMERICA

PRISMATIC VIEW

The colorway used on the hotel's exterior follows the light spectrum, which in turn creates different perspectives of the hotel according to the time of day.

DESERT INSPIRATION

The natural desert surroundings heavily influenced the hotel, including its name, which is after the iconic Saguaro cactus, and its bright color palette, which is inspired by the area's native flowers.

1 THE SAGUARO

Coachella Valley, Palm Springs, CA

It's hard to miss the Saguaro Hotel in Palm Springs. Much like its sister hotel in Scottsdale, The Saguaro Palm Springs was also designed by Stamberg Aferiat Architecture, and features a façade painted in fourteen different hues—think vivid Southwestern tones meshed with Roy G. Biv. The interior boasts cool custom furnishings, a lush courtyard, three different restaurants, and of course, the requisite pool.
